Near Mt. Wilson -- shooting cracks, whumpfing

Wilson Peak Northern Madison 1/13/2021 Code Latitude 45.28440 Longitude -111.32800 Notes

"Upside-down snowpack, with a ~1ft strong layer on top of a few inches of weak snow. Significant shooting cracks and whoomphing in areas with deep snow. There was comparatively little snow in the trees -- not enough to cause avalanche concerns. We stayed off high-angle slopes, because of the clear signs of avalanche danger, and the very warm temps."
